OLDEST CLOCK IN ENGLAND.

Erected in 1320 in One of the Towers of Peterborough Cathedral.

Peterborough cathedral has the oldest working clock in England. It was erected about 1320 and is probably the work of a monastic clockmaker. It is the only one now known that is wound up over an old wooden wheel. This wheel is about twelve feet in circumference, and the galvanized cable, about 300 feet in length, supports a leaden weight of three hundredweight, which has to be wound up daily.

The clock is said to be of much more primitive construction than that made by Henry de Nick for Charles V. of France in 1370. The clock chamber is in the northwest tower, some 120 feet high, where the sunlight has not penetrated for hundreds of years, and the winding is done by the light of a candle.

The gong is the great tenor bell of the cathedral, which weighs thirty-two hundredweight, and it is struck hourly by an eighty pound hammer. The going and the striking parts, communication being by a slender wire. The clock has no dial. The time is shown on the main wheel of the escapement, which goes round once in two hours.—London Chronicle.

THE TOWER OF HUNGER.

A Famous Person of Pisa Long Since Destroyed.

"The Tower of Hunger" was a name given to the tower of Gualandi, in Pisa, celebrated because of the reference made to it in Dante's "Inferno." Ugolino, count of Gherardesco (1220-80), was the head of a leading Ghibelline family in Pisa. Deserting the Ghibellines, he went over to the Guelphs. Afterward he returned to his own side and joined that uncompromising faction which regarded Archbishop Ruggieri as their head, until dissensions arose between him and them after he had killed the archbishop's nephew in a quarrel.

In the summer of 1288 Ugolino was seized by the Ghibellines and sent a prisoner to the tower of Gualandi, with his two sons and two grandsons. Here they were kept till March, 1289, when the door of the tower was fastened, the keys thrown into the Arno and the prisoners left to die of starvation. The tower, which was ever after known as the "Tower of Hunger," was in ruins at the end of the fifteenth century and was finally destroyed in 1653.

AFRICA.

The Way That Name Was Bestowed Upon the Continent.

The name Africa was given by the Roman conquerors, after the third Punic war, B. C. 146, to the province which they formed to cover the territory of Carthage. It was most probably adopted from the word "Afr-gah," the Carthaginian term for a colony.

This original Africa was limited in extent. Its borders reached, according to Ptolemy, from the River Tunes on the west, which divided it from Numidia, to the bottom of the Syrtis Minor on the southeast, though Ptolemy carries it as far east as the bottom of the Great Syrtis, making it include Numidia and Tripolitania.

In later days the whole African continent took its name from this part, which in its narrower limits corresponded with the modern regency of Tunis and was called by the Greeks Libya. Africus, the stormy southwest wind, was so called in Italy because it blew from Africa.

Implements of Warfare.

There is a story of a privateer's crew of forty to fifty men capturing a Turkish galley with 500 seamen and soldiers on board by means of a swarm of bees judiciously thrown among the unspeakable ones. However this may be, there are enough authentic instances of strange methods of attack to provide amply sufficient material for the casulist in deciding what is fair and what unfair in war. Burning naphtha, boiling lead, birds, carcasses of men and horses, Chinese stinkpots, besides the implements already mentioned, have all been used for offensive or defensive purposes in actual warfare.

Prank of the Lightning.

In 1844 a fishing smack off one of the Shetland isles was struck by lightning during a fierce storm. The bolt first struck the mast, which it splintered completely. It then passed to a watch in the pocket of a man sitting close to the mast and completely melted it. The man not only was uninjured, but he did not know what had taken place till he took his watch from his pocket and found it fused into a mass.

Windmills.

"I never knew till now why this was such a windy country," said the bright little girl traveling through Illinois. "And have you discovered why?" asked her father.

"Of course. See all the windmills on these farms we're passing."—Philadelphia Ledger.

His Method.

Mrs. Newpaw—Why don't you stop whipping the child? You make it holier. Mr. Newpaw—I'm licking it to make it stop howling.—Chicago Journal.

Cause For Sorrow.

Brown—Crocker's down with brain fever. The doctor says if he recovers his mind will be a blank. Green—I'm sorry to hear that. He owes me $10.

A LOGICAL SAVAGE.

The Way He Silenced a Missionary In an Argument.

"I used to know in Australia an intelligent and interesting missionary," said an English nobleman. "He and I were talking one day about the natives of New Guinea, and he told me how one of these natives had stumped him in a certain argument. It seems that he had accosted the native and urged him to let himself be civilized.

"But what good," the native asked, "will this civilization of yours do me?" "Well," said the missionary, "you will cease, for one thing, to idle all your time away. You will learn the delights of honest labor."

"What good will the labor do me?" "Through it you will gradually accumulate money, and in time, with frugality, you will possess much more of honestly acquired riches."

"The native was still unconvinced. 'What good will the riches do me?' was his next question.

"They," said the missionary, "will enable you to cease from work at last and to spend the rest of your days in well earned rest."

"The native laughed.

"It seems to me," he said, "that if I did as you say I would be taking a mighty roundabout course to get to the place I started from."

INDIA RUBBER.

Its Form of Structure Which Permits It to Be Elastic.

Modern physics teach us that the molecules of all bodies are in a state of incessant motion; that the intimate structure of matter is, in fact, a reproduction of an infinitely minute scale of the revolving suns and planets.

In gases and liquids this motion is most extensive in range, but in solids the movements of the molecules are more restrained, and they merely oscillate or rotate about a certain mean position, the range of motion being strictly governed by the attractions producing it.

If by the pull of an outside force the molecules are drawn out beyond the limit of their mutual attractions the body is broken, but within this limit it will recover itself when the pull ceases. We may regard the particles of rubber as revolving in circles. When it is stretched these orbits become elliptic, returning to the circular form when released. As then this substance possesses a very wide range of variation of molecular distance without rupture it is eminently elastic.

DOCTOR OF DANCING.

This Title Was Given to Beauchamps by Louis XIV.

In France during the reign of Louis XIV. dancing took a very prominent position among court festivities, and many members of the royal family took part in the complex ballets of the time. Louis himself, no mean performer, took lessons for twenty years from Beauchamps, who was called the father of all dancing masters and upon whom the king conferred the title doctor as a special mark of favor.

Beauchamps had the honor of appearing as partner with the king in the minute, a dance which was introduced in 1650 in France, and no court ball was opened in Europe for a century and a half without it.

About the year 1661 a royal academy of dancing was formed under the auspices of Beauchamps, Lull, Mollere and others, the object of which was to elevate the art and check all abuses. Of this academy Beauchamps was chief, with the title of director.—London Telegraph.

A Story of a Scholar.

Theodor Mommsen, the famous historian, had not only the appearance but the manner of a scholar. Once during the half hour's drive from Berlin to Charlottenburg the car in which the professor rode went badly off the track. The rest of the passengers alighted, the horses were removed and the stranded car was left until help could be found. Mommsen remained, reading his book. An hour passed, and the sound of levers and jacks and the plunging of horses' hoofs aroused him from his reverie. With no sign of discomposure he arose from his seat and went to the door. "Ah," said he, "we seem to have come to a standstill."

Maine Counties.

The three original counties of Maine had good old English county names, York, Cumberland and Lincoln. Only two, Oxford and Somerset, have been similarly named since, all the rest having good American appellations. For the names of Androscoggin, Arrostook, Kennebec, Penobscot, Piscataquis and Sagadahoc find their origin among the Abenakis, while Franklin, Hancock, Knox and Washington bear the names of distinguished Americans of the white race.

A Fest In Growth.

"I lost my foot in the war," said the tramp, "and I'm trying to raise enough money to get out to California."

"What do you want to go to California for?" asked the woman at the door. "Oh, I've heard that there are things which grow a foot in a day out there."—Yonkers Statesman.

The Deceivers.

Miss Verjuce—What a shame it is how the men deceive us poor women! Miss Bluehouse—They would never get a woman to marry them unless they did, my dear.—New Yorker.

In Luck.

First Citizen—Aren't you drinking a little more than usual? Second Citizen—Yes. My wife has a cold in her head and can't smell a blamed thing.—Albany Journal.

Dragging Pains

2825 Keeley St., CHICAGO, ILL., Oct., 2, 1902.

I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Maudie Bush

Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

A Seven Days' Feast.

Here is a description of the marriage entertainment of the eldest daughter of a knight of King Henry VIII's time; Seven days of feasting and revelry were indulged in, the following being among some of the numerous items provided: Beer and ale, $35; two hogheads of wine, $20; one hoghead of red wine, $10; nine cranes, twelve peacocks, three red deer, twelve fallow deer, seventy-two fat capons, thirty dozen of mallards and teal, two dozen of herons, two axes, and among the fish turbot, pike, sturgeon, ling, salt and fresh salmon, eels, lampreys, oysters and porpoise figured. For the amusement of the guests there were "first a play and straight after the play a mask, and when the mask was done then the banquet, which was 110 dishes and all of meat, and then all the gentlemen and ladies did dance, and this continued from the Sunday to the Saturday afternoon." The wedding outfit, included in which was apparel for a bridegroom, cost $135.—Chicago News.

When Koi Floats in Japan.

When the koi floats in its bamboo pole it means trouble is brewing in Japan. The koi is a paper fish brave in purple and gold, orange and black, so skillfully made that the wind, inflating it, sets it swirling and swerving as if alive with an energetic flapping of its fins. A fisherman will tell you that it represents the carp, that mighty swimmer against all obstacles. A poet will affirm that the koi typifies predominate. It is all one and the same. When the fish floats over a Japanese dwelling it announces the birth of a male child, but when war is imminent or in progress the streets of the cities are gay with the polychromatic emblem flaunting and flashing before the door of every loyal household. This is equivalent to the display of bunting in the accident when troops go forth to war.

Mongolian Sheep Killers.

A recent traveler in Mongolia writes: "On arrival in camp a sheep was killed for the stranger's benefit. It is worth going to Mongolia to eat mutton, which is unlike any other in my experience. No traveler who has written on the country fails to mention it. Missionaries, Protestant and Catholic alike, refer to its succulence. The method of killing sheep is curious and unpleasant. The animal is thrown on its back, when the butcher makes an incision in its belly, in which he thrusts his hand, where he presumably seizes the artery, as death ensues and the carcass is suffused with blood. He then takes a ladle and transfers the blood to a receptacle at his side. No drop is spilled."

The Different Kinds of Memory.

As described in extended articles in Cosmos, Paris. It is noted that some children, when they learn a lesson, have only to read it over a few times; others will not remember it unless they have heard it recited; others must repeat it aloud to themselves. These are the three kinds of memory—visual, auditory and motor. Those who need to recite the lesson aloud to themselves are at once auditory and motor. Certain persons retain a passage well only after they have copied it out. These have a combination of motor and visual memory.

The Manner's Breath.

The old fable of the sirens has its duplicate in one of the most deadly of modern weapons. The whistle of a bullet once in the ear is a sound that is surprising to be told that it is a beautiful one. Mr. H. F. Prevost Battersby says in his South African notes called "In the Web of a War."

The Manner's most melodious period is from 800 to 18,000 yards. Over that distance its note is the most exquisitely lovely of single sounds. "The silky breath of the Manner" is a phrase that adequately describes it.

But there is something more about it than its beauty, something strange and baleful. It goes by like the singing of a wondering soul that can find rest only by bringing death to another. It is a sighing so indescribably tender and sad and sweet that every sound of human lips seems without charm beside it.

After lying for a time under that silky breath, one has even to resist a desire to lift his head and take the next puff of it in his face.

was done to stay the progress of the disease, but in vain. The funeral was held on Tuesday. The Rev. C. E.
Winning officiated, and the school children, together with a large number of adult citizens, followed the remains to the graves in a Protestant cemetery. The parents in this grievous affliction have the heartfelt sympathy of the community.

The road from the electric plant to Jackson has been placed in excellent condition, by the grace of the Standard Electric Company. It has been widened the entire distance, that is where it was necessary to widen it for five years, and the condition that it has been in before. The heavy machinery which is expected for the new power plant has not arrived at the depot yet. It is not improbable that the extension of the road as far as Mountain Springs may be completed in time for the hauling of this machinery as far as that point, and that would amount to the avoidance of the worst part of the winter road.

Mrs. Morrow Lewis, of San Francisco, talked to a small audience on Main street, Jackson, on Sunday evening. She discussed politics from a socialist standpoint. She wanted her hearers to believe that the system of wage-earning was all wrong. For one man to employ the laborer and the other one to be dependent upon the employer for a living was not the correct thing. She talked for over an hour, and it must be confessed that she talked fluently from that side of the house, and kept the crowd to the most notwithstanding the chilliness of the night air.

A number of roofs in Jackson are being covered with P. & B. ready-made roofing—a composition of burlap tar and other ingredients. The new Odd Fellows building, Webb hall, a portion of the City drug store and Gem saloon, the Macaroni factory, Opie Harper saloon, and other places on Main street have already been covered with it. Tin is being discarded as a roofing material in this vicinity. It has given general dissatisfaction who used. The felt roofing on the other hand is of an elastic texture, and is not affected injuriously by the extremes of temperature. The manufacturers furthermore guarantee it for five years, and claim that with a little care it will last two or three times that period.

THE STAPLES' CASE.

Coroner's Jury finds that Mrs. Staples'
Death was caused by Arsenic Poisoning.

The coroner's jury impaneled to investigate the circumstances of the death of Mrs. Edna May Staples, assembled in Sutter Creek on Wednesday last. Mrs. Staples, as has already been stated in these columns, died in Amador City on August 31, and was buried two days thereafter, no suspicion at the time being aroused that but the old dog, if concerned in the massacre at all, was fovy enough to get out of the way when the dreams began to bark.

A. C. Barrett has sold his interest in the boarding house, the Fremont mine. S. Dalpota, of the Kennedy boarding house, is the purchaser. He took charge last Wednesday. Mr.
Barrett has been running it since he left the hospital three months ago, and sold out at a good round figure. Mr.
Dalpota, the new proprietor, will place some relative in charge of the Fremont boarding house, continuing the Kennedy establishment himself.

W. E. Roberts and Miss Minnie Northey were united in wedlock at the M. E. parsonage by Rev. C. E. Winning on Wednesday last. Shortly after the ceremony the happy pair were driven to Angels, where they will spend a short honeymoon. The bride is a charming young lady of this town, and the groom, who is employed at one of the homes hereabouts, is to be congratulated upon winning such an amiable life companion. The pair will make their home in Jackson.

Cutting Scrap.

A cutting affray occurred near the Piccadilly saloon, on the Jackson Gate road, on Monday afternoon. The parties taken to the police, who are engaged in the lumber business in the mountains, and W. Gardiner. It seems that Gardiner had been working for Bradley in getting out logs and lagging during the summer. When they met Gardiner wanted a settlement for the balance due him, amounting it is said to something like $90. It does not appear that there was any dispute about the amount due, but Bradley wished to settle the matter. Thereupon Gardiner became belligerent, and the pair came to blows. Bradley had his pocket knife in his hand at the time, and used it, cutting Gardiner across the abdomen, inflicting a gash that would have penetrated the cavity had it not been for striking a rib. He also slashed him on the right side of the face. Bradley received a bruise on the hand and also about the breast.
Bradley gave himself up and was placed in jail. It is not thought, however, that the case will be prosecuted. Bradley, who is a man well along in years, claims to have acted in self-defense.
Gardiner, however, is a man of more serious complexion.

Bradley was released yesterday, no charge being made against him.

Another Cutting Scrap.

The only disturbance deserving of mention on election day in Jackson, occurred on Broadway street on Tuesday evening. It was not the outcome of any discussion or dispute over election matters either, but was caused by limbings too freely of liquor. A wagon load of voters from the electric plant had been to Clinton to vote. It is one of the absurdities—and certainly not the least—of our local arrangements for conducting an election, that voters living at Electra, although within three miles of a polling place, have to travel from 12 to 15 miles to vote. In traveling half this distance they have to pass within a quarter of a mile of two other voting places. But this is digressing from our subject. The returning voters passed through Jackson on their way home, and stopped in front of the Chicago hotel a few moments.
Some of them went inside. On re-appearing they found several others, bound also for Electra, had taken possession of the wagon. There was room for the new arrivals. They were ordered out, and forced out. A fight ensued, and in the scuffle a man named Sidney Carter, an engineer at the plant, was stabbed in the hip with a pocket knife in the hands of Carlo Luperani. Carter was also out of the hip cut a bloodvessel, and the blood spurted out in a stream. It would have speedily bled to death but for the timely arrival of Dr. Gall on the scene, who secured the ruptured vein and stopped the outflow of blood. The wounded man was taken to the Globe hotel. He is getting on all right, and no serious consequences are anticipated.
The assailant, Luperani, was arrested, and is now in jail awaiting examination.
Sheriff Norman went to Electra yesterday and brought another man to jail, charged with taking part in the affair.

The report of the result of the chemical analysis was not submitted to the jury, but the district attorney stated that it was to the effect that arsenic had been found in the stomach. It was quite a surprise, and it is not certain whether the amount revealed by the analysis was sufficient to cause death;
the simple fact that arsenic was present, and that the drug veratrum viride was not detected. The report was deemed incomplete, however, and it is to be considered before taking further action awaits more light on important points from the chemist.

Four witnesses were examined. Miss Minnie Jackson, who waited on the sick woman at the time of dissolution, stated the circumstances of the death.
She was not present at the moment of death. She was sent almost as soon as the breath left the body to notify the undertaker to come over from Sutter Creek and embalm the body.

J. Danerl, the undertaker, testified that he injected the embalming fluid into the femoral artery as soon as he arrived, which was not more than an hour or so after death. Dr. Staples told him that he had given the corpse a good cleaning out before his arrival.

Dr. A. M. Gall testified that the embalming process would not account for the presence of arsenic in the stomach, unless a blood vessel had been ruptured by the injection of the fluid. There was no indications of this revealed by the autopsy; no signs of internal hemorrhage. The vital organs were healthy.

L. B. Hoxie, the husband of the woman with whom Dr. Staples is thought to have eloped, testified to certain circumstances bearing on the case.

The jury brought in a verdict that Mrs. Edna May Staples died from the effects of arsenic administered by some unknown person.

It has been ascertained that Dr.
Staples did not go to New York as announced his intention of doing. He and Mrs. Hoxie went to San Francisco, and were passing there as man and wife. He started to practice medicine in the city. The pair appear to have been wholly ignorant that suspicions were entertained as to the cause of Mrs. Staples' death, and the action of the authorities here to prove or dis-prove these suspicions. After an item appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle, stating that the body of Mrs.
Staples had been exhumed, and the stomach forwarded to a chemist for analysis, Dr. Staples and his companion left the city. They left in a very ceremonious manner. The doctor's sign was not taken down, and one trunk was left in the apartments occupied by the pair. Efforts have been made to locate their whereabouts, but so far they have proved unavailing.

A Good Complexion.

"Sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks resulting by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers," so writes S. P. Moore, of E. F. Davis was next introduced as for biliousness, constipation etc. Small pill—easy to take—easy to act. Sold by all druggists.

A Quiet Wedding.

Samuel W. Hocking and Miss Irma Stadler were united in happy wedlock on the 23rd of October at the home of the bride on the corner of Sherman and Floyd streets, San Jose, Rev.
Thomas S. Young performing the ceremony.

None but relatives of the family were present, as it was the desire of both parties to have it a quiet little home wedding, surrounded only by their nearest and dearest.

The bridegroom is a prosperous mining man of Jackson, Amador county.
The bride is a handsome girl, who has a large circle of friends in this city.
Her tastes are domestic, and she is a born housekeeper.

The happy couple will make their home in Jackson, where Mr. Hocking has a wide acquaintance and warm friends, who are waiting to welcome his bride. They will go to their future home followed by the best wishes of all who know them.—San Jose Mercury.

TRAINING VOICES.

Quick Music Teachers and the Harm They Do Pupils.

"Ninety-five per cent of all vocal teachers are quacks," said an old musician. Few singers would doubt the assertion. Probably in no other kind of work can a man who knows practically nothing about a subject do so quickly a lucrative amount of teaching. There are many common types—the piano teacher who cannot get enough pupils to make a living, the broken down old time singer, the dervish of the concert halls, who never could sing himself, and many more. Their half hour lessons may be said to consist one-third of chat and gossip, one-third of scales and exercises and one-third of the singing of the pupil's favorite songs, all interspersed with just enough commendation and criticism to keep the pupil's good opinion of himself and of his teacher. There are teachers whose training has not only ruined voices, but temporarily harmed general health as well. Over against these charlatans of the profession there are conscientious men and women who can detect faults in a voice and know how to correct them and who work carefully and enthusiastically for each individual pupil.

It is not easy to tell the good teacher from the quack, and you will find bitter early experiences in many a successful singer's career.—Leslie's Monthly.

AN ARBITRARY TYRANT.

This Autocrat Exists Solely by the Will of the People.

And it came to pass that in the very height of modern times an arbitrary tyrant ruled over a great country called America. The name of this tyrant was Everybodydoest, and all the inhabitants of the land bowed themselves to his will.

Terror of the autocrat caused grown men and women to cast aside every dictate of common sense—sometimes of honesty as well. Children overstudied, wearing out precious eyesight, cramping growing organs, yet mothers whispered under their breath the name of Everybodydoest and the evil went on. Men bought houses and European passages, automobiles and other expensive luxuries, the cost of which was out of all proportion to their income. "Everybodydoest" was the explanation they gave.

Sorriest of all was the case of the young girls. They patronized unwholesome plays, read books produced by diseased minds, they overindulged, abandoned the gentle ideals of their mothers' day and grew old before their time. "Everybodydoest," they said.

And thus it was in all classes of society throughout the broad land. All men and women, young and old, recognized the power of Everybodydoest and bowed their necks to his yoke.—Philadelphia North American.

An Accommodation Train.

In the lake district of England there is a tiny railway which has only one train run by two officials, one of whom is managing director, ticket collector, guard and porter and the other chief engineer, engine driver and stoker. The train stops anywhere. It frequently goes off the line, but crows are carried, with which the train is persuaded to return to its proper position. When a friend of either official is observed, the train is brought to a standstill. At one time, when the managing director was courting the daughter of a farmer through whose lands the line ran, the young lady would take her stand at a certain gate every evening, the train would be stopped, and the young man would kiss her good night.

Long Widowhood.

In 1753, in the ninety-sixth year of her age, died Jean Countess of Roxburgh. She was not a very remarkable woman, but her memory is preserved on account of her long widowhood, which lasted seventy-one years. Her father, the first Lord Tweeddale, fought at Marston Moor in 1644.

This Countess of Roxburgh's long widowhood is insignificant compared with that of a certain Agnes Skinner. According to an inscription in Camberwell church, this worthy woman died in 1490 at the age of 119 years, having survived her husband only eight years less than a century.

Be Just a Man.

Don't be a gentleman. Lincoln was a man. Who ever spoke of the "gentlemanly Shakespeare?" Think of describing Grant as a gentleman! How would it look in history to read about our great General, George Washington? Nobody ever dubbed Solomon with the name of "gentleman." "A gentleman" is a snob's title for a do nothing, a fellow about town, a tailor made loafer, a confidence shark or a society stalk. Be a man.—Hayfield Worker.

Poorly Rehearsed.

"What is your favorite opera?" asked the young woman who was trying to make conversation.

Mr. Curox looked startled.

"I can't say," he answered. "My favorite poem is 'The Recessional,' and my favorite writer is Rembrandt, but I forget what mother and the girls told me to say my favorite opera is."—Washington Star.

A Good Plan.

Mac—Are you going to the matinee this afternoon. Blanche—No, I must stay home. The hairdresser is coming. Mac—Why don't you have two sets? Then you could leave one.—Cleveland Leader.

Radical Difference.

A boy and a girl is that the girl can get enthusiastic about a treeful of cherry blossoms without thinking of the cherries.—Somerville Journal.

Amusing a Boston Baby.

Mrs. Beaster—Mr. Johnson, won't you please assume the baby for about five minutes? Mr. Johnson (not of Boston)—I'm afraid I don't know how, Mrs. Beaster. Mrs. Beaster—Just talk a little. She always finds your western grammatical peculiarities so amusing.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

His Mistake.

"I pity the man who can't learn anything from his own mistakes. Now, that's one thing I can do," said Bragg. "Ah! You're always learning something then, aren't you?" replied Knox.—Exchange.

Investing Money.

Be Sure of Your Scheme Before You Risk Your Savings.

Don't tie yourself or your money up. Don't risk all your savings in any scheme, no matter how much it may promise. Don't invest your hard earned money in anything without first making a thorough and searching investigation. Do not be misled by those who tell you that it is "now or never" and that if you wait you are liable to lose the best thing that ever came to you. Make up your mind that if you lose your money you will not lose your head and that you will not invest in anything until you thoroughly understand all about it. There are plenty of good things waiting. If you miss one there are hundreds of others. People will tell you that the opportunity will go by and you will lose a great chance to make money if you do not act promptly. But take your time and investigate. Make it a cast iron rule never to invest in any enterprise until you have gone to the very bottom of it, and if it is not so sound that level headed men will put money in it do not touch it. The habit of investigating before you embark in any business will be a happiness protector and an ambition protector as well.—Orison Swett Marden in Success.

BITING THE THUMB.

It Used to Be Considered a Pledge of Mortal Revenge.

In "Romeo and Juliet" the servants of Capulet and Montague begin a quarrel by one biting his thumb at the other. Commentators have regarded this act as an insult, quoting the following passage from Decker's "Dead Term": "What swearing is there, what shouldering, what jostling, what jeering, what biting of thumbs to beget quarrels!"

St. Walter Scott, however, in a note to the "Lay of the Last Minstrel," says, "To bite the thumb or the glove seems not to have been considered upon the border as a gesture of contempt, though so used by Shakespeare, but as a pledge of mortal revenge." It was thus accounted to be a solemn assurance that at the proper time the sword should settle the dispute or purge the offense.

Something of the sort may have prevailed among the Romans, for it is thought that the Latin pollicis, to promise, is derived from pollex, the thumb.

PRISONS OF SILENCE.

Where Convicts Ever Wear Shrouds and Sleep Beside Coffins.

Entombed in a grim castle on the outskirts of Lisbon are some of the most miserable men on earth. These are the inmates of Portugal's deadly prisons of silence. In this building everything that human ingenuity can suggest to render the lives of its prisoners a horrible, maddening torture is done. The corridors, piled tier on tier five stories high, extend from a common center like the spokes of a wheel. The cells are narrow, tomb-like, and within each stands a coffin. The prison garb is a shroud. The attendants creep about in felt slippers. No one is allowed to utter a word. The doors are unlocked, and the half a thousand wretches march out, clothed in shrouds and with faces covered by masks, for it is a part of this hideous punishment that none may look upon the countenances of his fellow prisoners. Few of them endure this torture for more than ten years.

A Five Days' Love Story.

At the present time we are always talking about the rush and hurry of the twentieth century. Are we really so rapid as we think we are? Certainly few girls of fourteen have anything like the amount of experience and emotion in many weeks of life that Juliet, Shakespeare's heroine, had crammed into five days and a half.

The time is thus apportioned: On Sunday the ball took place, and on Monday Romeo and Juliet were married. On Tuesday Juliet took the draft, and on Wednesday she was placed in the tomb. On Thursday Romeo returned, and on Friday the hapless pair committed suicide.
